

Self-assessment: Assessing parental capacity to change

- What is in place in your agency that helps you assess parental capacity to change?
  - Peer-support, access to tools and measures to support assessment, etc

- What primary evidence do you collect to assess parental capacity to change?
  - Family and children's views, consulting other professional, environmental factors

- What research evidence do you use to help you assess parental capacity to change?
  - Factors associated with harm, risk assessment and other tools, evidence on protective and resilience factors

- What other partners or agencies do you engage to help assess or support changes in parenting?

- Do you assess both parents equally and how do you highlight differences between parents?